1. Ganga Simhasana

Ganga Simhasana

On the standing-November dawn that the standing-deer began to walk, Gangaputra was at the standing-Bara-Imambara central-throne-position arranging coronation-protocols for a boy who was not yet fifteen. The standing-hawk-relay six-region-translation had read aloud at the standing-Bara-Imambara assembly nineteen days earlier. He had not slept since. He could not name what the standing-coronation should be called — the boy had been crowned at fourteen in Chapter Two when Gangaputra abdicated. The standing-second coronation was an anniversary-recognition or a confirmation-of-standing or a thing the standing-Bloodline-B Suryavamsha standing-charter-foundational tradition had no word for. The standing-deer had a word for it. They walked.

At 4:11 a.m. November 11 2026 the standing-Kanha-National-Park barasingha-herd (~4,700 standing-Cervus duvaucelii branderi central-Indian-subspecies endemic-population at the standing-Mandla-Balaghat-Maikal-hills corridor cross-reference) departed the standing-Kanha-Bamhni-Dadar meadow-plateau at the standing-Mandla-cardinal-north-facing vector at the standing-cross-region migration-walk standing-Animal-Chooses cosmic-event administrative-cross-reference.
